ICFai Foundation Day Lecture with Dr. Raghunath Anant Mashelkar

Dr. Raghunath Anant Mashelkar, former Director General of the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR), delivered a lecture on "Disrupting Inequality by the Magic of Disruptive Inclusive Innovation" at the ICFai Foundation for Higher Education in Hyderabad. He emphasized the importance of inclusive innovation in promoting equitable and inclusive growth for all segments of the society.

Dr. Raghunath highlighted the challenges of achieving accelerated inclusive growth and the need for disruptive, game changing inclusive innovation. 'Inclusive innovation should harness sophisticated science and technology know-how to invent, design, produce, and distribute high-performance technologies at prices that can be afforded by the majority of people. Business houses must move towards affordable, functional, but high-quality products, aiming for technologically sophisticated, performance-rich products. CEOs must develop major qualities such as a deep commitment to inclusive growth, a clear vision structure, a clear vision with a human dimension, the ability to evaluate the impact of reduced prices, and the ability to force project teams to work within self-imposed boundaries.'

He applauded young disruptive inclusive innovators and the Anjani Mashelkar Foundation, which honours young unsung heroes with the Anjani Mashelkar inclusive Innovation Awards set by the students of MBA and representatives of clubs and committees of NMIMS Hyderabad.
